

Dear Director Smithline:

Currently, when a California consumer purchases new carpet, he or she pays a 25 cent per square yard fee that funds a state-wide carpet recycling program. Although consumers in Stanislaus County pay this fee just like everyone else, there are no drop-off locations for carpet recycling available in Stanislaus County. Not only are Stanislaus residents paying for – and not benefiting from – this program, but because we have 1 of only 3 municipal trash incinerators in the state, some of that carpet may be burned instead of recycled, adding to the Valley's already poor air quality and impacting public health.

We respectfully request that:

- (1) the State ensures that the carpet stewardship program provide recycling services for residents of Stanislaus County, and
- (2) ensures that carpet is not being burned in the Crow's Landing incinerator.

Sincerely,
